Classical Archaeologists study the material remains of the ancient Greco-Roman world. But how do they analyze what they find? What kinds of information do they uncover? In CLA 3700 we will study the major, stylistic trends, and cultural context of the artefacts and monuments of ancient Greece and Rome.

Course Objectives

In this course you will:

Discover the types of questions archaeologists ask about material culture.

Identify and date the major monuments and stylistic developments in Greek and Roman material culture from the Bronze Age through the Late Empire.

Learn the cultural context of ancient Greek and Roman artefacts.

Develop a critical stylistic eye
