COURSE OBJECTIVES

Students will continue learning the basics of ancient Greek, the language of the Western world's first works in epic, philosophy, tragedy, and medicine, as well as the New Testament. The study of ancient Greek will lead to a greater command of English grammar, syntax, and vocabulary. This is the second semester of a year-long introductory course.

The weekly homework assignments and vocabulary quizzes, along with the exams, are all designed with the ultimate goal of you reading ancient Greek texts on your own, with help from a Greek dictionary and a commentary. Memorizing basic vocabulary and basic grammar/morphology as they are presented during the course will save you immense amounts of time when you read Greek texts, since you don't have to look up every last word or construction. The vocabulary quizzes help you develop basic vocabulary, and the homework and exams help you develop basic grammar/morphology skills and give you translation practice. This semester, we will focus more on reading short, adapted passages of Greek, before transitioning to reading extended passages from Classical Greek authors.

TEXTBOOKS

Greek: An Intensive Course, 2nd edition by H. Hansen and G. Quinn, Fordham University Press. Required for every class meeting.

POLICIES AND GUIDELINES

1. Attend every class and minimize your distractions. Points will be deducted from the attendance grade for unexcused absences, late arrivals, and early departures. If you are sick and/or test positive for Covid, please stay home! I will be happy to go over missed classwork and extend homework deadlines in that case, just let me know.

2. The homework assignments due on Tuesday and Thursday and may be turned in at the end of class, but please have them done by the start of class. The Friday online homework assignment is due at midnight. For the Friday homework, you may submit a legible picture of your written work instead of uploading a Word document. Each homework assignment will be worth 2 points: 1 point for turning it in, and 1 point for participation in the class discussion on the homework. Late homework will be accepted only with a very good reason, and will receive half credit.

3. There will be three open book exams throughout the semester (held on Thursdays for maximum time. Exam 3 is on a Tuesday, the last day of class, but will be shorter). There will be no cumulative final exam, but be aware that languages are cumulative by nature.

4. There will be a short online, cumulative, closed-book vocabulary quiz each Friday (except in weeks that have an exam). You will have a 16-hour window (8 am to midnight) to take the quiz, and 10 minutes to complete it once you start. The lowest quiz grade will be dropped. Given this flexibility, there will be NO make-up quizzes, except in the case of a documented technical difficulty (contact the UF Help Desk to document a problem).

5. On all work submitted for credit, the following pledge is implied: “On my honor, I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid in doing this assignment.”

6. Students with disabilities who experience learning barriers and would like to request academic accommodations should connect with the Disability Resource Center. Click here to get started with the Disability Resource Center. It is important for students to share their accommodation letter with their instructor and discuss their access needs, as early as possible in the semester.

7. Students are expected to provide professional and respectful feedback on the quality of instruction in this course by completing course evaluations online via GatorEvals. Click here for guidance on how to give feedback in a professional and respectful manner. Students will be notified when the evaluation period opens, and can complete evaluations through the email they receive from GatorEvals, in their Canvas course menu under GatorEvals, or via ufl.bluera.com/ufl/.
